Brief Report of the Program

PowerPoint Presentation Competition was organized at our university, providing a platform for first-year Ph.D. scholars to present and discuss their potential research topics. The event aimed to encourage young researchers to explore innovative ideas, develop critical thinking, and enhance their academic presentation skills.

The competition was held on 27th Oct 2025 at IUT, Ground Floor Auditorium. It was organized by the Department of R&D under the guidance of Prof. (Dr. Dhananjoy Datta. Participants were asked to present their proposed areas of research, highlighting the objectives, significance, methodology and expected outcomes of their studies.

All first-year Ph.D. scholars took part enthusiastically. Each participant was allotted 8–10 minutes to showcase their topic, followed by a question-and-answer session with the faculty panel. The presentations covered a wide range of research domains, reflecting both interdisciplinary approaches and emerging research trends. The judges evaluated participants based on clarity, originality, structure, visual appeal and presentation skills.

The second day i.e. 28th Oct 2025, featured a special interactive session conducted by distinguished faculty members, who shared insights on how to design, structure, and deliver impactful academic presentations.

Topics discussed included:

- Techniques for creating visually engaging slides.
- Structuring content for clarity and logical flow.
- Voice modulation, confidence, and audience engagement.
- Common mistakes to avoid during academic presentations.

This session was highly appreciated by the participants as it offered practical guidance to improve both the content and delivery of their future academic presentations.

Outcome and Highlights

The two-day event successfully achieved its objectives by:

- Enhancing the research communication skills of first-year Ph.D. scholars.
- Providing exposure to presentation standards expected in academic conferences.
- Creating an interactive learning environment among scholars and faculty members.

The PPT Presentation Competition, along with the faculty-led training session, proved to be a valuable academic initiative. It not only helped scholars articulate their research ideas effectively but also equipped them with essential presentation skills. The event fostered confidence, academic curiosity, and a spirit of continuous learning among the participants.

The event concluded with the announcement of winners, distribution of certificates, and a Vote of Thanks by the organizing committee.
